

BLAB III

BORN TO RUN, LOYAL TO NONE

May I be the first to extend a most festive welcome to readers old and new. Yes folks, the Blab is back with avengence. Some of you will already have remarked on its new, smaller format. This is due to a new printing process at Blab Enterprises Ltd.

Yes folks, thanks to a helping hand from Big Features Syndicate, Blab Enterprises have managed to overcome their financial and marketing difficulties. However, some of you may have remarked on a slight change. For the the Blab of today will attempt to unravel key issues that affect all of us. Fundamental problems like Belly Buttons and Belly Button Fluff! Why is it always blue? Do people with sticking out belly buttons get it as well? And why is it such good fun in the bath?

All this and more in Blab 2The future today.

THE BLAB RUN.....

What ever Y.T. do, Blab can do better.....
Yes indeed folks, forget all that rubbish about heads in killer whales, or polishing the shoes of some little pratt from the BBC and try the Blab run. Six seemingly impossible tasks that make Hercules look like Royston Northridge.

- 1..Engage yourself in a meaningful conversation with Matthew Humberston about Marxism, convincing him you think his policies on Utopia in the new world are absolutely Brill' and that you would gladly become his slave and his disciple for the rest of your life.
- 2..Sell ten tickets for a Y.T. show (be honest)
- 3..Estimate to the nearest Sq.kilometer the size of Ian Wagge's ego (Tricky)
- 4..Get yourself successfully thrown of the committee two years running (See`Mark Britten for details)
- 5..Make sense out of a Y.T.bank statement?????
- 6..Make sense out of Y.T. (Radical Hey)

So comeon kids, why not give it a go

Blab Rights

As this is the 1st edition, let me introduce you to a new column, which we hope to feature in every issue.

In 'Blab Rights', we hope to print your letters - and why not have a go. If you write now, you might get it in in time for the next issue.

We did get one letter before Daily Blab went into liquidation.

Reader - Dear Manic,
Help me, I think I might be Paul Bacon.
P.S. I think Daily Blab is brill.

As you see, letters can be as long or short as you like.

Our page 3 Christmas Cracker of the month is bubbly Betty from Bristol ---and who wouldn't mind finding her in their Christmas stockings hey lads!?

Betty loves all sports, including handgliding. ----she can glide into my bedroom anytime!!??

Exclusive reports have been coming in this week of a bizarre turnaround in the long running Snow Queen saga. It is believed that Mark P T Oldknow, well-known Spitting Image puppet has refused to take part in the production unless he can wear his pink tutu and latex rubber bra. His conditions have been rejected by the committee in a majority of 4 to 3. The part is now being played by ~~John Travolta~~ Mark Britten - our sincerest condolences go to his family.

BLAB II EXCLUSIVE

Exclusive news has just hit the desk of Blab Enterprises, just in time for print. It has been revealed by a Y.T. mole, that certain Y.T. funds from the Sunday afternoon tea break, normally used to buy a big tub of Maxwell House for future tea breaks, were instead diverted and used to buy a jar of Nescafe for Committee meetings.

This could be the worst scandal the Bacon administration has had to face this year and already it has begun to take its toll on certain members of the committee. Faced with probing questions from our Blab correspondent, both Paul Bacon and rear admirable Nicky Walsh pleaded the fifth amendment and were consulting their lawyers.

It remains to be seen just how much Mark Britten knew about the affair, for surely this could not have come about without higher authority. One thing is for certain, this is the worst embaressment for any Y.T. committee since Harrowgate, when the group disbanded due to the fact that one Sunday, fine grained sugar was used in the break instead of lumps.
